

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A composite material, which can be made of extrudable materials, includes a first layer and at least one second layer. The layers are connected to one another and opaque. The composite material also includes at least one marking section. A method of producing a composite material is also disclosed.